

The City of San Antonio Department of Code Compliance

Presents:

The Enforcer & CODE-E's Clean Up Capers

The purpose of this activity book is to teach children and their parents about the City's Code Compliance Department and its efforts to keep San Antonio clean and safe by enforcing City Codes related to high weeds, rundown buildings, junked cars, and having too many animals on an individual's property.

The Enforcer and his brainy sidekick CODE-E are setting out to clean up San Antonio neighborhoods and they need your help!

These superheroes are teaming up with the City's Code Compliance Officers to track down San Antonio's Least Wanted - The Code Violators.

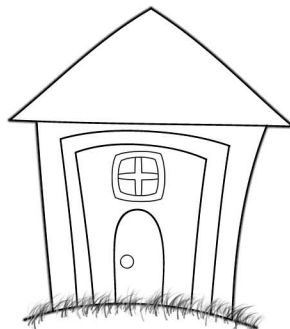

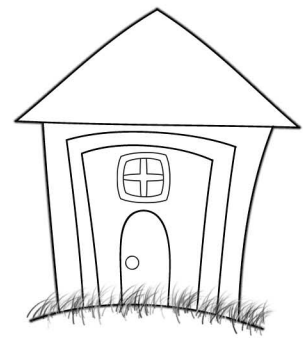

Martha planted a beautiful garden 10 years ago that she thinks is the prize of the neighborhood, so she refuses to mow.

If you can't see your knees, mow your grass please!

What do you mean my grass is too high?

High grass is a great home for bugs, rats, and snakes and it's also against City Code, so please keep your grass mowed.

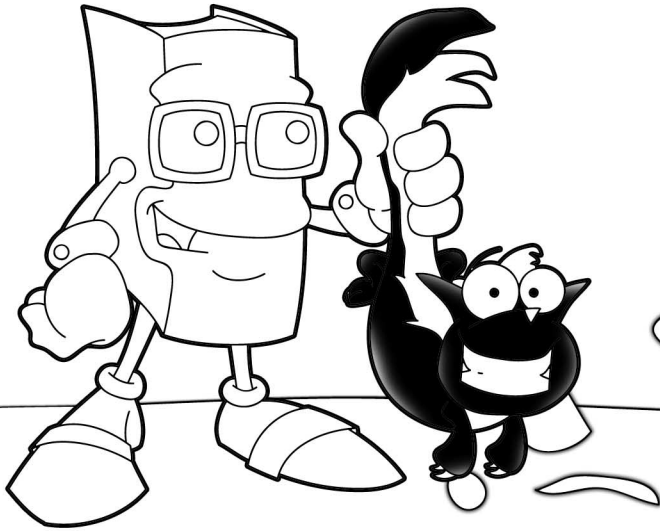

Can you guess which two houses have the right yard for City Code?
Circle the correct answers!

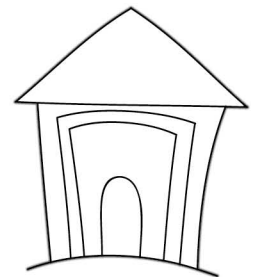

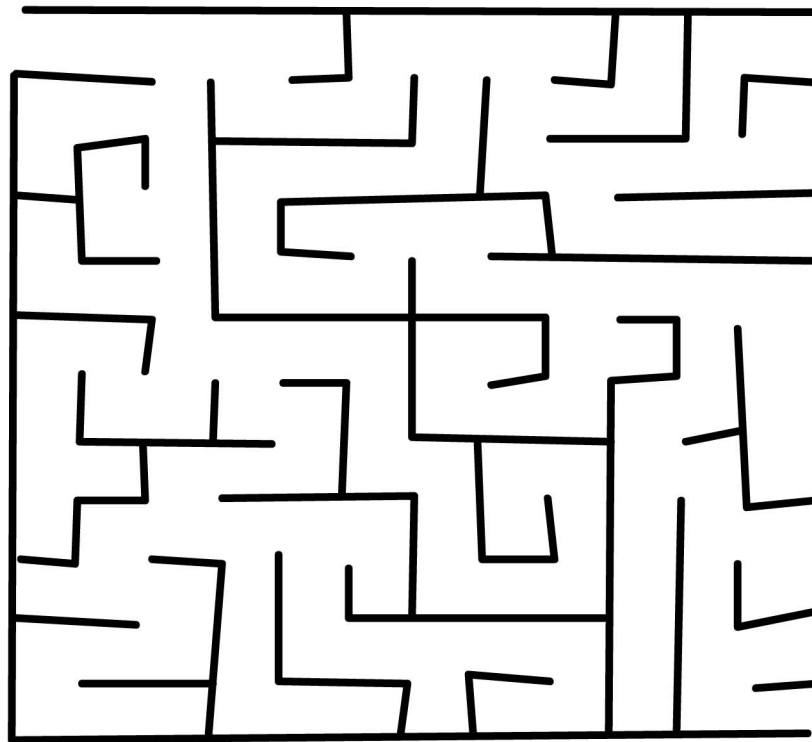

All of us are responsible for keeping our homes clear of trash and high grass.

Don't be a skunk;
get rid of your junk!

Oh yeah! What about my yard?

Don't be a Code Violator like Tommy Trashy. Keep your home clean and safe.

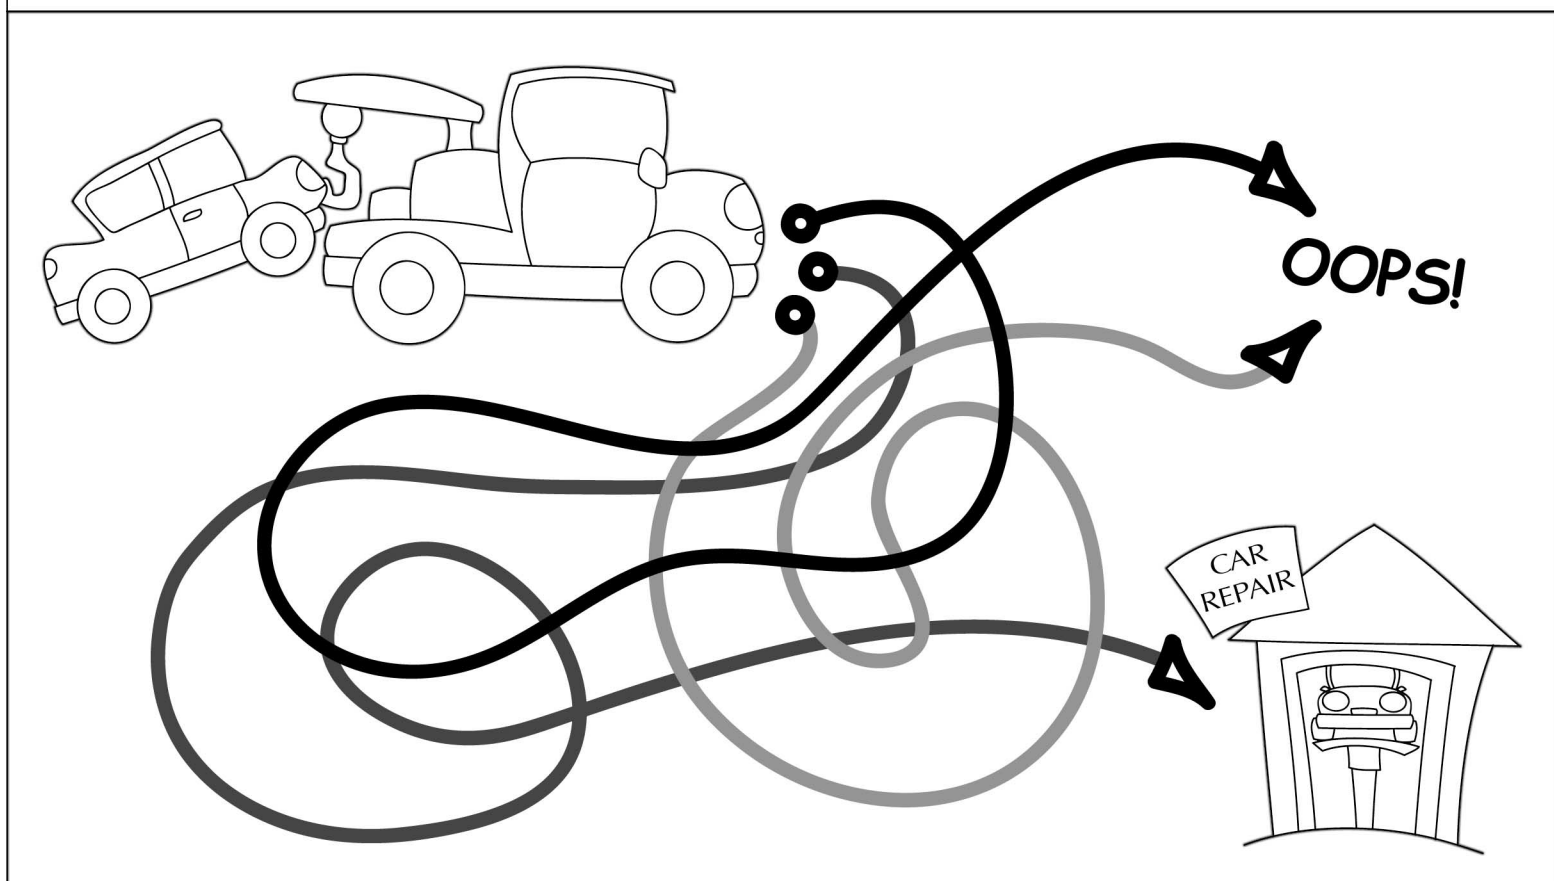

Help Tommy Trashy find his way to a clean house!

Junky, broken down cars trash up your yard and the rest of the neighborhood.

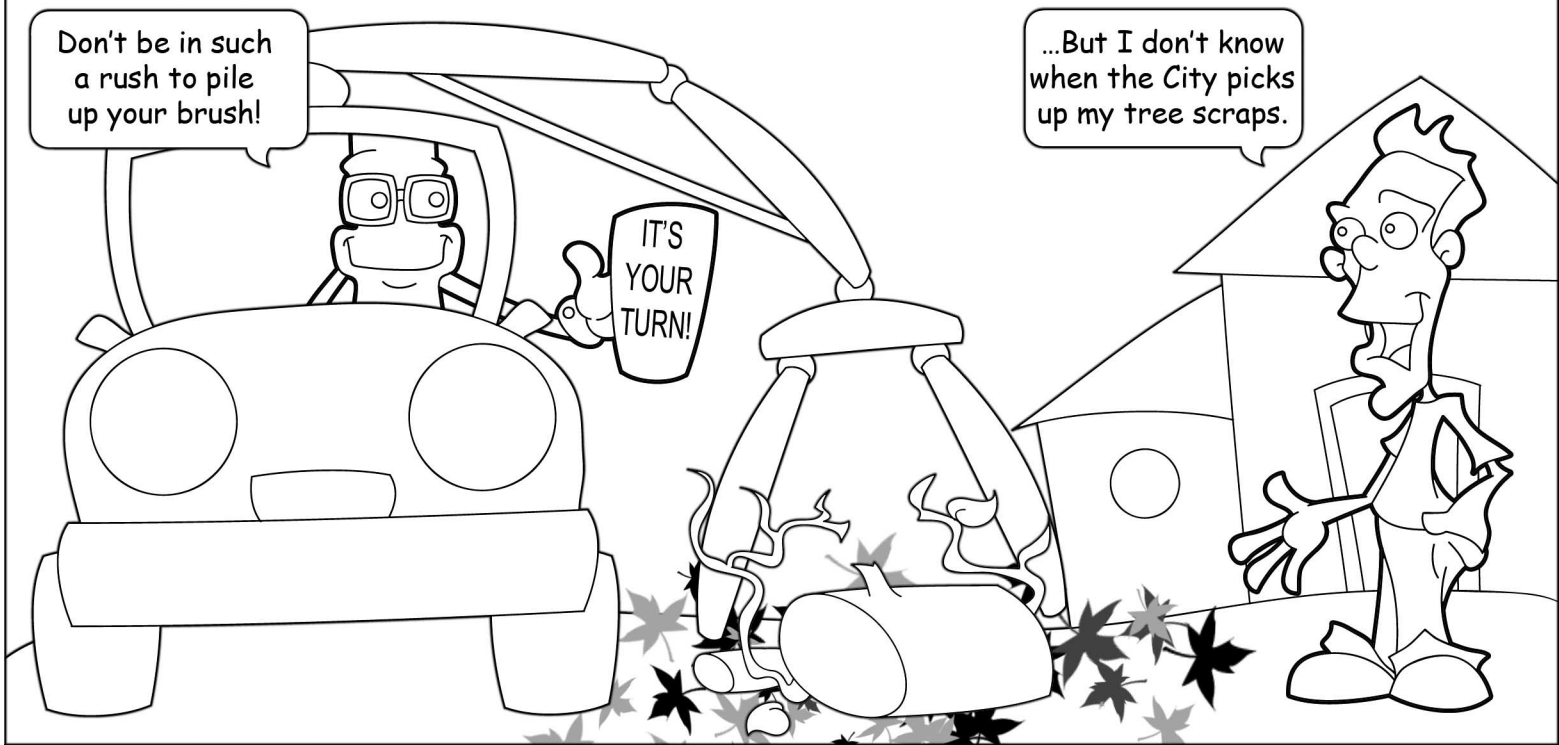

And it's also a City Code violation!

Follow the correct road to the shop.

Bobby Brushpile works in his yard every weekend and is always piling brush on his curb and sidewalk before he gets his yellow tag from the City.

Bobby could be fined up to $2000 for violating City code. So don't put tree limbs, refrigerators, and old furniture on the curb unless the City says it's your turn.
